News Release: ADIA (Association of Dental Implant Auxiliaries) Expands Knowledge Base for International Members

Upper Montclair, NJ – July 2009 - The Association of Dental Implant Auxiliaries (ADIA) announces that its site www.ADIAonline.org is now translated for our international members. The ADIA is having a significant impact on international dental education. Programs have already been presented in the Netherlands, England, Scotland, Taiwan, Ukraine, Poland, etc.

Members can now view our website in French, Italian, Russian, Arabic, Chinese, and several other languages. An additional feature of the ADIA website is that by selecting the link to the International Congress of Oral Implantologists (ICOI) the complete site of ICOI is available in the same language. Dentists and team members can find information on educational meetings, patient education, connect with other members, and much more. Communications Manager Teresa Duncan commented "we are very excited about this new offering. Translation of materials removes a learning obstacle for many members. Our goal is inclusion and education for our entire ADIA global membership."

Co-Chairman of the ICOI board, Dr. Kenneth Judy stated, "The ADIA is an integral part of the ICOI and its desire to educate all team members. Our auxiliary members are leaders and innovators and should be supported by our dentist members and industry."

The ADIA has provided auxiliary education in the dental implant field for over nineteen years. It provides education through annual meetings and certification programs. Several comprehensive one-day courses provide information about all aspects of implant dentistry. Visit our site at www.ADIAonline.org for more information.
